

Chris Hayes – “Jaded (feat Cory Pettiford)”

In benefit of the Claire Cucchiari-Loring Memorial Scholarship Fund

A music student at Old Dominion University with a passion for jazz, Claire Cucchiari-Loring’s life was tragically cut short at age twenty two in December 2006 after she was fatally shot by her ex-boyfriend who then took his own life in the immediate aftermath.

With the clarity of hindsight some claimed they saw it coming but many more remain shocked to this day at this inexplicable and irrevocable act that left such a gaping hole in the lives that Claire touched.

“Jaded” is not a pretty song; the edgy tones and tortured lyrics of “Jaded” describe the spiraling obsessions of an emotionally disturbed ex-boyfriend that are interrupted when a concerned friend steps up to intervene and break the cycle.

All proceeds from your purchase of the song “Jaded” will be donated to the Claire Cucchiari-Loring Memorial Scholarship Fund, a lasting legacy that reflects Claire’s spirit and passion for music. “Jaded” is immediately available directly from CDBaby at <http://www.cdbaby.com/cd/chrishayes1> and will be arriving soon at digital music retailers everywhere such as iTunes and Amazon MP3.

A special thanks to the Audio Production students at Old Dominion University for their suggestions and creativity to make this track a success.

“The mission of Seven Cities Music is to facilitate a driven, cooperative, and educated local music community through the professional development of participating bands and individual musicians throughout Hampton Roads.”
